Dear Parent/Carers,

I appreciate the announcement last week that both GCSE and A level exams will be cancelled will have caused a huge amount of anxiety and left you with many unanswered questions. This morning the DFE released further guidance on how GCSE and A level Grades will be awarded this academic year. The leadership team at London Nautical School will be formulating the schools' approach to deriving grades in line with guidance from the DFE and Ofqual.

In the meantime, please do not contact individual teachers about exam results as the school will provide updates through the school website as and when they are issued.

Thank you for your continued support during these incredibly challenging times.

Yours sincerely,

Mr M Schofield
